ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS A YEAR IN ADVANCE

J. W. MESSAMORE FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

To the Republican Citizens and Voters of Knox County:—

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Attorney of Knox County.

I was born and raised in Knox County and what interests I have for myself and fellow citizens are within the boundary of said County. I have been in active practice in the courts for seven years. If nominated and elected to this office I promise to give all my time and energy to the performance and the duties involved in said office. I make this announcement with full faith and confidence of winning.

I hope to see you at your home or at other places between now and the coming Primary in August, 1921 and discuss with you the issues involved in the coming campaign. And I hope to have the support of every voter and the influence of all.

Your friend,
J. W. MESSAMORE

ALBRIGHT-BLACK

The marriage of Miss Lillian Albright, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Albright of this city and Mr. Charles G. Black, of Hamilton, W. Va., formerly of this city, was solemnized at the Broadway Christian Church, Louisville, on Saturday, February 19th, 1921, by Dr. W. N. Briney, pastor of the church.

Mr. W. F. Connelley, grandfather of the bride, Mayor and Mrs. Thomas C. Venable, of this city, and Mrs. J. H. Hadden, Jr., of Corbin, Mr. J. H. Butler, of Hamilton, W. Va., and Mrs. Frank Demarest, of Louisville, were present at the ceremony.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a traveling suit of navy blue tulle, and carried a corsage of lilies of the valley and sweet peas.

After the ceremony the bridal party was entertained at dinner in a private dining room of the Hotel Henry Watterson, by Mr. Cullen.

On Sunday evening the party with Miss Loretta Farmer, were entertained at dinner by Mr. C. L. Banks of this city, at the Pendennis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside at Hamilton, W. Va., where Mr. Black is engaged in the banking business and of which city he has recently been elected mayor.

CIVIC LEAGUE

The Civic League met with Mrs. F. D. Sampson in her apartments in the Parker Building with a good attendance. Routine business was attended to and plans laid for some social entertainments for the near future.

During the social period Mrs. Ben Kaufman, accompanied by Mrs. Dan Herndon sang very pleasingly "Dear Old Pal of Mine." Mrs. Kaufman is a trained singer and the ladies were pleased to have her sing before them.

Nobody can make a man out of a monkey but almost any good looking woman can make a monkey out of a man.

FOR JAILER OF KNOX COUNTY

I am a candidate for the office of Jailer of Knox County, subject to the good will of the voters of Knox County.

I was born and raised on Big Brush Creek in Knox County, Kentucky, and have been a miner for over 22 years and have never asked for public office before. I have always been a Republican and supported the Republican Party all my life.

I know that I am qualified for the office of Jailer and will attend to the duties of said office without fear and will do my duty regardless of creed or color.

I have been a miner for a long time and have almost broke down at the work in the mines and hope that my fellow workers will assist me in this race.

Any favor you can do for me will be greatly appreciated.

My father was Jim Golden of Brush Creek.

Your friend,
STEVE GOLDEN

TEN OF THE JURY FOR LIFE SENTENCE

It is stated that ten of the jury in the trial of Lockard for the murder of Wiley Smith, son of Noah Smith of Elys at Corbin, were in favor of the death penalty, because they were convinced that Lockard killed Smith for the money he was known to have on his person. When the body was examined by the authorities only three or four dollars were found on his person.

It will be remembered that while a citizen of Knox County, Lockard was indicted in the Knox Circuit Court for deserting his infant children and it charged that he took another woman when he left his family.

SIGNING UP RIGHT OF WAY

Decatur, Jackson and W. W. Evans were busy the beginning of the week signing up the right of way for the Harboursville-Corbin end of the Dixie Highway. They are also signing up rock quarries.

The right of way must be 40 feet in width to come up to the specifications of the Federal Government.

The government is ready to let the contract within the next sixty days, providing all the right of way is secured and a few angles which have to be eliminated are arranged for.

AFTERNOON TEA

Mrs. W. T. Mitchell entertained with a delightful afternoon tea at her cozy home on Pine St. Wednesday, Feb. 16th. Each guest had some dainty piece of hand work to occupy her fingers while visiting. Dainty refreshments of ice with fruit cake, tea or coffee, nuts and almonds were served in the cheerful dining room.

Those present were Mesdames F. D. Sampson, James Wilson, L. L. Richardson, Ed Garrard, James D. Black, Fred Burman, Tomlin Garrard, G. H. Albright, J. L. Mitchell, W. F. Amis, the hostess and Little Miss Edith Mitchell.

MILLARD HIBBARD MURDERED AFTER LEAVING CHURCH

On Saturday night the Baptists of Locust Grove, near Girdler, met to worship God as they had done for some nights previously. About 8 o'clock the service was finished and the congregation left. Among those were several young men, who are alleged to have passed in and out of church during service hours. Two of them, Charlie Hammons and a boy named Jackson, it is alleged left the grounds and when just beyond the fence (some few yards from the church) they fired off their guns.

Rev. W. N. Epperson, one of the pastors, followed and reprobated with Charles Hammons who said he had not fired his gun. Rev. Epperson said he knew he had for he saw him do so whereupon an argument ensued which ended in Charles Hammons saying that Mr. Epperson was a G— d— liar and at that rate he (Hammons) was not a goose; that and had never branded another man's legs, for which remarks he was knocked down by Mr. Epperson.

Meantime, Jim Carthy, who had followed Mr. Epperson, arrived on the scene. In his testimony, he stated that believing Jackson intended to shoot Epperson after the blow had passed, he got in between them, grabbed Epperson, slung him around and then stopped to pick up hats which had fallen. Others started away with Epperson. The witness did not hear Hibbard who had come up say anything to anyone.

Here the defense, which consists of Messrs. A. Smith and R. N. Jarvis, asked the following question: "Is it true," asked Mr. Jarvis, "that Hibbard struck at and threatened to shoot Mr. Epperson?"

"The answer was 'yes,' the witness going on to say that when he came up George, or Dad, Hammons said 'I will kill every G— d— one of them,' and fired two shots at Hibbard. Asked what he did, Carthy said 'I ran.'"

Other evidence showed the murderer tried to take Carthy's life by firing a shot after him as he ran and then whirled and placed his gun at the breast of Uncle Henry Stacy, who had lifted Charles Hammons up and would doubtless have killed him too, had not Charles said, 'Don't shoot him, he is a friend of mine.'

Rev. W. N. Epperson followed with about the same testimony except that he insisted he had struck but one blow, while the evidence of others was that he had struck several. He said there had been trouble at other churches and from the going in and out of the boys and other actions, he judged they were causing. He said, "they smelled of whiskey," but this was not corroborated by others. He said he did not know but what Charles Hammons might shoot him and held on to him after the blow had been struck. He said "Jerry Chadwell took me away and we had probably gone 25 or 30 steps when we heard three or four shots. Jim Carthy ran by me and said, 'Dad Hammons has killed Millard Hibbard.' I wanted to go back but they would not let me." He testified that before he died Hibbard had called for George Hammons, father of Charles Hammons, and said, "George, we have always been good friends, but I am a murderer and your boy is the cause of it."

Uncle Henry Stacy testified that Hibbard was unarmed, that Dad Hammons had put his pistol to his breast, that Charles asked Dad not to shoot as he was a friend and that after the shooting the two Hammons left him alone with the dying man.

Jerry Chadwell said Millard Hibbard was in no way provocative but was trying to make peace. He testified to hearing the death shots.

Rev. John McQuillan testified to a good deal of running in and out of church, that he stayed at the church during the shooting and to the hearing of shots both before and during the murder. He also said that Hibbard said after the shooting, "It is awful to be killed for nothing," and asked for George Hammons.

Wilson Gariaud testified he had carried a light from his house and helped the wounded man to the house of his brother-in-law, Dan Stacy.

John McVey, who lives 200 yards from the church, testified to seeing Charles Hammons, George Dad Hammons and the Jackson boy going thru his yard after the shooting. He heard the cries and groans of the wounded man and said Dad Ham-mons shouted back, "G— d— you, you ought to die—G— d— you ought to know I'd kill you."

Charles Hammons did not speak a word and the general testimony was that he asked those present to get Mr. Epperson away as he did not want trouble with him.

After leaving the testimony, Judge J. H. Tuggle bound Charles Hammons over on a $5,000 bond to appear before the Grand Jury. He came to Monday with his father, a well-ordered being held in jail until his preliminary trial.

Millard Hibbard leaves a wife and seven children, one only a month old, to carry on the burden of life alone.

The funeral was held Monday, interment being above the Widow Stacy's place.

George Dad Hammons had not been arrested as we go to press and a reward of $325.00 has been offered for his capture and delivery to the Sheriff.

Sheriff Read P. Black, James Shorter, W. M. Johnson, Sherman Bowles, Steve Philpott and Ed Dozier on Tuesday went to Parrotts Branch, down along the branch to Cannoa and searched every house but found no trace of him, returning Wednesday morning at 2 a. m.

We understand there are several bootlegging indictments out against Dad Hammons and one for disturbing public worship in which he is alleged to have stopped a Holiness preacher from preaching at the point of a gun. He was lodged in Barbourville Jail, having been captured at Cannoa. We believe, by Ed Shorter some months ago and shortly before his time for trial he disappeared overnight. This murder is the natural boundary.

NEW BUILDING PROGRAM OF THE BAPTIST INSTITUTE

Dr. A. E. Brown, of Asheville, N. C. is here to arrange for the enlarging of the Barbourville Baptist Institute now inadequate for the number of pupils who wish to take advantage of its educational facilities.

A colonial porch will be built on the front of the Administration building, an addition 40 by 60 feet to the same building, a basement, central heating plant, big dining room on the second floor and six additional class rooms. It is also expected that an addition will be made to both the boys' and girls' dormitories or a new dormitory for the girls may be built. The present chapel will probably be remodelled.

This is important work and makes a further step forward toward making Barbourville a school town. The Baptists are to be congratulated on their push in the matter of looking after the needs of the young people along the lines of school facilities.

Dr. Brown is Superintendent of the Baptist Mountain Schools and is assisted in this work by Rev. R. L. Creal, former pastor of the Baptist Church in Barbourville.

Ed A. Hulse is making a big start on his new residence on M. A. Foster Street in the Sevier addition.

Miss Dovie Jackson is back in school after a very severe attack of measles.

MICKIE SAYS

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC

Last week we mentioned the fact that Ely Hollow had been thru the throes of a smallpox epidemic, which however, had begun to subside. A number of new cases have now been reported in the same district. When everybody works together in the prevention of this preventable disease it will be done away with.

ESQUIRE L. S. MONHOLLEN FOR COUNTY JUDGE

To the Republicans and Citizens of Knox County:—

I hereby solicit your support for the office of County Judge of Knox County subject to the action of the Republican Party at their Primary in August, 1921.

I have served the people as magistrate for four years in the Eighth Magisterial District. I have always stood for the improvement of roads and bridges in the County. I am the only man in the County who has any pike roads to show for said County out of the tax payers' money.

I pledge myself to use all my power and influence if elected to do as much for the County as a whole as I did for my district while serving as magistrate. I expect to see you all at your homes and discuss the issues pertaining to this office. I promise an economic and business like administration looking always to the improvement of agricultural, school and church interests in the County.

L. S. MONHOLLEN,
Suing, Ky.

JOIN THE NATIONAL GUARD

Don C. Herndon is actively engaged in the formation of a unit of the National Guard for Knox County. Ex-service men or others who desire to become members of this organization will kindly communicate with Mr. Herndon.

Something like $10,000 each year are paid to the members of each unit. Besides being uniformed and equipped the officers and men are paid a full days pay for each drill of one and one half hours they attend.

The recent reduction in the size of the regular army makes the National Guard a most important part of the country's defense and it should be organized without delay.

Clay County already has a cavalry unit under the direction of Captain D. V. Lyttle.

COLORED LONE SCOUTS ENTERTAIN

The Colored Lone Scouts on Saturday entertained with boy singers from Fighting Creek. It had been arranged for boys to come from Pineville but the weather was so bad they did not come. Ice cream, cake, Chicken etc., were served and the guests of the Scouts had a good time clearing $16.00. W. M. Maiden is in charge of the Lone Scout organization.

UNION COLLEGE NOTES

Dean Ryder and Mrs. Ryder were in Pineville Tuesday evening attending a reception given in their honor by the Methodist Church there which the Dean is serving this year.

The first issue of the Orange and Black took the school with surprise and delight Tuesday. The Juniors expect to make this paper a real, worth while influence in our school life. Subscriptions are solicited for the remainder of the school year—35 cents till June 1st, or 5 cents a copy. It will be worth your while to subscribe.

President Franklin generously gave us half a holiday Tuesday in which to remember George Washington and otherwise enjoy ourselves.

Miss Amanda Knucklen, a former student now of Hazard, Ky., visited her brother and sister over Sunday.
Miss Georgia Kinder, of Richmond spent the week end with Miss Carter. Miss Kinder returned to Richmond Tuesday evening with the visiting teams from N. H. M. S.

Both the first and second teams had light practice last Saturday evening when we played L. M. U. We expected a real game but our Varel-id did L. M. U. worse than they ever did our second team. The whole thing was a lopsided victory for Union with a score of 55 to 10.

The last regularly scheduled game of the season was played in honor of Washington's Birthday—a double header with Richmond. Union did some brilliant playing before a crowd which filled the house. The scores were: Girls 32 to 8 and boys, 64 to 18. We hope our manager will be able to schedule several specials before the winter is over.

Our debating teams are well organized now for practice in preparation for the intercollegiate debates to be held in April and May. At present South Eastern Kentucky will be represented by Sue Bennett, Hazard H. S., Highland Institution and our College. The date for our first public try out will be announced in the near future.

The girls of Union are giving Miss Jump continuous and hearty appreciation of her Red Cross Teaching Service by attending her classes in large numbers.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess calomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel.
Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.)

DAN BAKER KILLS HENSLEY

Don Baker killed J. H. Hensley here last Sunday morning at about nine o'clock, shooting him in the back and neck five times at the Beker boarding house on 14th Street.
It is claimed by Mr. Hensley's wife that Hensley was not doing anything at the time of the shooting and search afterward showed that he had no gun to attempt to do anything.
Baker claims Hensley started to attack him at the time of the shooting and that he was forced to do it in self defense. It is alleged that Baker went to the room of Hensley to clear up some talk of Mrs. Hensley who had told Mrs. Baker of Dan Baker making improper advances to her.
Baker is in Pineville jail awaiting the action of the Bell County Grand Jury now in session which will set upon the case. Baker came here from Pineville about a year ago.
Hensley had lived here for some time. Sawyer A. Smith has been employed to defend Baker.—Three

UNION vs TOWN TEAM

One of the most exciting games played on Union's new gymnasium floor was pulled off Wednesday of last week. Union won by a score of 29 to 12 but they certainly worked for their victory. The town boys worked like beavers and U. C. had to put forth corresponding efforts.

R. N. Jarvis soon put a foot in the casualty class and had to retire.
Ben Herndon proved to be a veritable thunderbolt, charging the opposition until it found difficulty in keeping its feet. Elbert Evans, Joe Mitchell and B. C. Kaufman are of the artilly dodger class and did good work. Hinkle and McDonald did most of the scoring, the height of the former permitting him to reach up and drop the ball in the basket.
Earl King was as movable as the Rock of Gibraltar and would permit a few clinging vines to hang on to him while he was deciding what he wished to do.

During the progress of the game the ball was in the gallery, in the clean pipes and down in the back men.

If the town players would put in enough practice they would be able to take the State championship.

There was more gaiety and pep in this game than one can usually enjoy in half a dozen games.

CONDEMN HIGH PRICED STOCK FOODS

Prominent Hog Raiser Says
Prices Charged Are Unwarranted—Makes His Own Hog Food, With Better Results

"That he is all thru paying fancy prices for stock foods and hog remedies and that he is raising some of the best hogs ever placed on the market" was the statement made recently by E. H. Beckstead, well-known hog raiser and authority on live stock.

Mr. Beckstead's hogs are the envy of his neighbors, and have "topped the market" for several years in own. He states that for years he bought high-priced hog foods and hog remedies, but he is all thru paying extravagant prices for what he can make himself. He says that what the hogs need are minerals, and tells the story of his wonderful success by explaining that he takes them five pounds of ordinary mineral (which is pure concentrated minerals and cost only a couple of dollars) and mixes them with enough bran or corn to make a hundred pounds. All hogs, and especially brood sows, require minerals as they keep them free from worms, and in the pluck of condition, and are essential to the hogs growth and a well balanced ration. This inexpensive mixture, placed in a sheltered box where the hogs can get at it as they need it, will produce far better results than any high priced so-called stock foods.

Send two dollars to the Mineral-chemical Co., 1628 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill., and they will forward you by prepaid parcel post, enough mineral to make a full hundred pounds. Adv. 14-41

DAMNING RECORD

Knox County is acquiring a damning record. The law enforcement force is becoming a stench in the nostrils of all right thinking men.

Criminals, including dirty bootleggers, murderers, pistol totting bullies and sullen fools are running Knox County with none to say them nay. In the name of all that is holy where is the spirit of the men who led the way into Kentucky when it was a wilderness and a man needed nerve? A murderer kills a man and laughs at the officers of the law. If by chance he comes before the court the Commonwealth is limited in its challenges as against the defence. A hung jury resulting, time and the sloppy sentiment of a sentimental public, work for the defence and, after dismissal, or a light sentence, the murderer is turned loose to kill some one else. Not long ago a man from another county was tried here who had been paroled and who added a third notch to his gun after his parole.

When lawyers refuse to handle the defence of cowards who shoot down another in cold blood, and allow the court to appoint their counsel, and the lawyer strives for justice to the dead as well as to the living murderer, Knox County will soon be free of this damnable crime. Let them know that when they commit murder they also commit suicide and they will be found too fond of their cowardly hides to risk dying.

Every man who assists in turning loose one of these fiends shares with the murderer the guilt of bloodshed and will be answerable to his Maker for his share in the crime.

Widows and orphans are the fruit of this bootlegging and murder gang, and the Sheriff gets the blame. But ultimately the juries of Knox County are also to blame for not smashing those who perpetrate these crimes.

Put the law back of our Sheriff and deputies. Assure them that the murderer will get quick justice with out legal quibbles and technicalities and the women and children of our County will be able to sleep at night without the shadow of fear as to what some armed coward may do to them by killing their loved ones.

Cut out the technicalities and get down to rock bottom justice. Justice to the dead as well as to the Historic Mount Vernon

REMARKABLE AERIAL VIEW OF MOUNT VERNON.

This picturesque view of George Washington's beautiful home on the Potomac was taken at a low altitude and gives almost a perfect representation of his old house and the outlying buildings and grounds.

The home of George Washington is a tranquil place; it belongs to a frame of mind almost vanished. But when the pilgrim through the house is completed and the eyes have begun to peer in vain for flames which are no more, but whose presence seems so vividly suggested, one steps out to meet spring sunshine, and the foliage that is, indeed, in keeping with the spirit of the past, observes a writer in the Detroit News.

The venerable barn, wrapped in ivy; the peaceful farm yards; the lazy low-hung buildings—all of these echo with steps that vanish just ahead, around each twist of wall.

But the intimate work of Washington's heart is in the surrounding grounds. The noble view from the portico, with its matchless sweep of river and shore, is the dazzling frame for it. It begins this work with the stately circle of the howling green and ends down below the rolling deer run, where the willows weep over into the Potomac.

It is Wordsworth's "brotherhood of venerable trees." As Washington planted and planned so, due to a reverent posterity, are the gardens and lawns today. In simplicity and fragrance the first of shrines; in reposeful influence the tonic of a nation.

There are today 200 important trees standing near the mansion, many of them planted during Washington's lifetime; others were added, but also invariably in sympathy with his original plans for the estate, so far as these were known. Washington himself searched far and wide for the trees he wanted; he wrote his friends in various parts of America and abroad. Thus it was that the estate is a spot beloved of forester and horticulturist, and the less sophisticated visitor gazes up into the spreading trees, lets the eye linger on green sand and shelving shores, and gives over his spiritual burdens to the bosom of the Potomac.

Washington's diary informs us he was active in January of 1783, locating elm trees for the grounds. The majestic American elm on the west lawn probably was one of the trees obtained at that time. He was fond of the American elm, and there are at least ten of these trees near the mansion, some of them, however, of the later planting. Of the original elms, two flank the walls, flanking the howling green, on the east side. They are picture-perfectly placed between the office and the gardener's house, although this pair may be more recent. A fine elm stands on the east lawn.

The howling green, between the two gardens, is an attractive study. At once attention is attracted to the two beech trees planted by Washington in the corners of the narrow end near the mansion. Their height is accentuated by their tall, straight trunks, and they form impressive focusing elements for the opening sweep of lawn stretching between the two gardens. On the west side the next tree is an ash, planted by Washington, and across from them two coffee bean trees, the three forming an impressive group.

Of four notable honey locusts, one standing between the kitchen garden and the serpentine walk is credited to Washington. This is a fast-growing and short-lived tree, and others probably disappeared. He makes note in his diary that on March 23, 1783, he planted "between 17,000 and 18,000 seeds of the honey locust."

The seven buckeyes have a special interest, for, instead of the normal yellow flowers, these have red, pink and flesh-colored flowers, colors not found anywhere else. Moreover, the records show Washington gathered the seeds from which the trees were grown near the mouth of Cheat river, in what is now West Virginia.

Washington's diary also mentions planting four horse chestnuts, but it is considered doubtful if either of the three big trees there now were among them.

The three peach trees, all on the front lawn are trees of history. They were given to Washington by Jefferson, who in 1791 first published a technical description of this tree, and apparently was the first distributor of living plants brought from the Mississippi valley. They are the oldest of the trees planted by Washington.

Two earlshires only are left. One is a collar of Lebanon, near the summer house, believed to have been planted in 1874. It is the only exotic tree on the grounds. The other is a solitary (and symbolic) cherry tree on the east lawn. Apparently it sprang from a seed from one of Washington's garden cherry trees, dropped by a bird.

Many trees mentioned by Washington as being planted by him are no longer to be found there; but of what he did plant a small forest remains, a remarkable tribute to the painstaking character of his attention to the estate. It is interesting, and not without a touch of sublimity, to behold these splendid trees set forth by his own hand, now casting shadows over the lawn he trod, their life spanning the history of the nation.

The howling green and its circle of trees bespeak intimacy. The east and west lawns are inspirational. The very shapes of the trees and their varied shades form ever new vistas, in which tranquillity is the keynote.

Nearly in the world is there a shrine to equal this; scarcely could there be a fier, a more enduring monument, than these symbols of eternity, these ever living trees, preaching their everlasting lessons of birth, fruition, decay and rebirth. It is all so simple, so artlessly perfect, not an ornament is there, not an obelisk, not a pile of bronze.

Velvet lawns, quiet shrubs, low-hung trees, perfumed gardens and the gentle hum of the summer air—reposeful, rhythmic—and unending itself between the two ranges of hills, the Potomac and the overhanging eminence of the waters.

It is what it is; the home of a gentleman who loved not only the world, but the earth; in it he planted his inheritance. We share it.

First Public Birthday Celebration.

The first recorded celebration of Washington's birthday was in Richmond, Va., February 11 (old style), 1782. It was celebrated there and in other places on February 11 of each year until 1793, when February 22 was adopted according to the new style.

LINCOLN THE MAN

House in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

"Let not him who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently to build one for himself."

—A. Lincoln

A recent writer, on Lincoln as a "lover of mankind" has likened him to two other great men who have become a common possession of our Anglo-Saxon race. Although they seem almost as far separated from each other as from Lincoln himself, both Chaucer and Sir Walter Scott reveal to the careful observer, the qualities that provoked a comparison apparently so remote. These are the qualities of a lover of mankind.

Chaucer displayed them in depicting, with sympathy for all the group of widely various characters who made their immortal Canterbury pilgrimages together. Scott displayed them not only through the characters of his imagination, but also in his recorded relations with all his fellow beings. In that respect Chaucer is at a disadvantage, because he lived long before biography had attained anything like its modern abundance. Lincoln, later than Scott, had more temptations to biographers because of his high place, is the most fully recorded of them all—although there is no single book about him that seems so sure to persist as the "Life of Scott," by Scott's son-in-law, Lockhart.

It is in the very variety and extent of the studies of Lincoln's character that the strength of his hold on the imagination of the world is shown. Fifty-six years have passed since he met his tragic death. Through all that period the interpretations of his character—historical, analytical, poetical—have steadily increased in number. The bare facts of his unique, yet strangely typical and significant career, arrange themselves in perspective like the acts of a great uplifting tragedy. If he had lived in the days when myths were made, it is easy to imagine that in the process of time he would have grown into a great mythical figure, a King Arthur of the New World, a half-divine hero like those that we associate with the most distant antiquity.

But he belonged to no such period. His age is one of the most amply recorded in all history, and the records of his life are so intertwined with those of men and events quite without poetic or heroic suggestion, that his feet can never be wholly removed from the earth. Indeed, it is much better that no such possibility exists. We need to know that out of our common life can spring so extraordinary an example of the development of which our human nature is capable.

When all is said and done, when his wisdom, his patience, his sacrifice are fully remembered, we shall delight pre-eminently to recall him as the friendly, humorous, accessible lover of mankind.—Youth's Companion.

Lincoln and Sumner.

Lincoln was modestly proud of his stature and of the effect of the physical man, especially when actually by noble sentiments. He used to speak of his height to every man that he met, and to propose measuring another gentleman's height as a compliment. "The only refusal," he is known to have received, was from Charles Sumner, who was also tall and proud of his height. Sumner was worrying the President, as he often did, about some perplexing matter, when Lincoln abruptly challenged him to measure. "Sumner declined," said Lincoln, "making a fine speech about this being the time for uniting our fronts against the enemy, and not our backs. But I guess he was afraid, though, he is a good piece of a man. I have never had much to do with bachelors where I live, but, do you know, Sumner is my idea of a bishop."—Harper's Weekly.

As Lincoln Is Remembered.

The work he did, the sum of his deeds and their great fruitage, may inspire the children of our national life and the recorder of God's hand, writing in the annals of life's world, but to the rank and file, who know but vaguely the details of his heroic achievements, the memory of Lincoln takes the form of a warm, loving, saddening personal presence, a latter-day reflection of the everlasting Man of Sorrows.

Why Lincoln Helped a Bug.

President Lincoln was walking with a friend about Washington and turned back for some distance to assist a beetle that had got on its back and lay on the walk, legs sprawling in air, vainly trying to turn itself over. The friend expressed surprise that the President, burdened with the cares of a warring nation, should find time to spare in assisting a bug. "Well," said Lincoln, with that homely sincerity that touched the hearts of millions of his countrymen, "do you know that if I had left that bug struggling there on his back I wouldn't have felt just right? I wanted to put him on his feet and give him an equal chance with all the other bugs of his class."

Cut Lincoln Off His List.

General Huldkeper in 1862 detailed two companies of his regiment to guard President Lincoln's summer residence. He saw the President constantly and they became real friends.

The first time the general met the President, Lincoln, who had heard that the Huldkepers came from Holland, inquired: "What is the difference between an Amsterdam Dutchman and any other jump Dutchman?"

And the general, who admired Lincoln above all other Americans, adds: "If I had had any awe of the President, it was then and there forever gone."—Philadelphia Ledger.

With a Nation's Tribute

Funeral Train of the Married President Leaving Washington Under Escort.

The splendor of the ceremonies which magnified living royalty as much as they glorified dead heroism was wholly wanting in the obsequies of Mr. Lincoln. No part was taken by the government except the provision of a suitable military escort. All beyond was the spontaneous movement of the people. For seventeen hundred miles, through eight grand states of the Union whose population was not less than 15 million, an almost continuous procession of mourners attended the remains of the beloved President. There was no pagentry, save their presence. There was no tribute but their tears. They bowed before the bier of him who had been prophet, priest and king to his people; with him struck the shackles from the slave, who had taught a higher sense of duty to the free man, who had raised the nation to a loftier conception of faith and hope and charity.

Rheumatism Comes From Tiny Pain Germs

First of all, get it firmly fixed in your mind that all the liniments in the world have no effect whatever on Rheumatism.

A very common form of Rheumatism is caused by millions of tiny disease germs which infest the blood. The one and only sensible treatment, therefore, is one which cleanses the blood of these germs, and routs them entirely out of the circulation.

This is why S.S.S. is the greatest known blood purifier, and successful in the treatment of Rheumatism. It is a powerful cleanser of the blood, and will remove the disease germs that cause your Rheumatism, affording relief that is genuine.

An Actual Lottery.

Marriage lotteries are still in vogue during October in some parts of India. The names of both sexes eligible for marriage are written on slips of paper and put into separate earthenware jars. The local wise man draws one of each kind and the youth whose name is drawn obtains a letter of introduction to the young woman whose name accompanies his, after which the courting commences.

WHY RAISE MORE POULTRY

Poultry is a necessary factor in farm life as a source of fresh meat and eggs. Poultry is adapted to village and city conditions as well as to the farm. The people of the city cannot have cattle, sheep, hogs, etc., in their city lots, but can keep poultry with little trouble or worry. To the city man or woman poultry is often carried on as a source of pleasure along with the other work and gives one recreation with pay.

To the rich and poor alike poultry is an indispensable human food. Nothing can take the place of poultry as a food. Many flavors are represented and many appetizing dishes are prepared from poultry products. Both game and domestic tastes are represented in the flesh. The products average high nourishment. Eggs are the most easily digested human food. Many people subsist on eggs when the stomach will digest no other food. It is estimated that seventy-five per cent of the people eat eggs daily.

On the farm poultry is a valuable scavenger, destroying insect pests, utilizing the wastes from the dairy and kitchen, and picking up grain that would otherwise be wasted.

The products are in great demand and are easily marketed. The demand is never supplied. Good products are not plentiful and bring the highest prices. The standardized products bring the very highest possible price. To produce the best clean and wholesome food must be given. These products should be marketed once or twice weekly. The market can be very well foretold. Eggs are cheapest in April, the time of heaviest production, and highest in early winter, the time of lowest production.

Compared with other live stock enterprises it is easy to start a flock of chickens. If one so desired he can start small and grow gradually with little outlay of money. Considering equipment and stock it requires less money to start a paying flock of chickens than any other live stock enterprise.

Good profit can be made from poultry. On the farm there is more profit when the poultry raising is carried on with the other farming operations.

Knox County is at the door of one of the best poultry and egg markets in the world, namely, the mining camps of Eastern Kentucky. Knox County is adapted to poultry raising since there is lots of cheap land and the poultry feed can be grown at home.

Let's every body boost for more and better poultry in old Knox County. EARL MAYHEW, County Agent.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. When you feel run-down, out of sorts, blue and despondent try the energizing influence of Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form. Nearly a million bottles were sold last year.

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have been down stairs and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments.

Prominent Western Man Praises Tanlac

G. W. Logan, Peabody, Kansas

"Tanalac has completely restored my health and I feel better than in years," was the straightforward statement made recently by Mr. George W. Logan, of Peabody, Kansas, one of the most prominent stock-dealers in the Middle West.

"It has not only made a new man of me but I have actually gained thirty-five pounds in weight and feel as well as I ever did in my life. I am telling all my friends about Tanlac but they can see for themselves what it has done in my case."

"When I began taking Tanlac I was in an awfully run-down condition. I was away off in weight, felt weak and nervous all of the time and couldn't take any interest in my work or anything else. My main trouble was indigestion. Nothing seemed to agree with me. At times I would have dizzy spells and at other times my back would ache so bad I could hardly get up and down in my chair. This is just the condition I was in when I began taking this medicine. It took just six bottles to make a well man of me. I now have a fine appetite, everything tastes good and my digestion is perfect."

"My wife was also troubled with indigestion at times and it relieved her the same way. You may publish my statement wherever you like and if anyone doubts it, just tell them to see me."

Tanalac is sold in Barbourville by the Cut-Rate-Drug Co., in Arionus by J. G. Haskin and in Perman by N. J. Faulkner & Co.—Adv.
